Community Arts

Cheryl-Ann Webster, aka The Boob Lady, is the artist, speaker and creator of the family-friendly Beautiful Women Project. Cheryl-Ann founded the Beautiful Women Project in 2003 to highlight the crucial link between body-image and self-esteem. As an artist she created the 120 life-size clay sculptures of real women ages 19-91 to act as a visual role-model for natural beauty. As a speaker she crafted numerous presentations tailored to the age and stage of the audience. Her Beautiful Women

Project, deemed a "revelation of truth", has been showcased in 12 Ontario communities with 70,000 visitors viewing the exhibit and hearing the message of self-acceptance. Most recently Cheryl-Ann has moved to BC and is in the process of reaching a global audience by producing 120 short videos each honouring the women who volunteered for the Beautiful Women Project and the impact these sculptures have had on the audience.
